Hall Render attorneys have extensive experience with federal, state and local tax laws. We provide a full range of representation before the IRS and the taxing authorities of various states. We routinely assist our clients with planning in the areas of individual, partnership and corporate income taxation, as well as estate and gift taxation. Our attorneys also have a special appreciation for the particular needs of tax-exempt organizations, including tax-exempt financing.

Our tax professionals understand how tax considerations factor into our clients' daily operations and business dealings. We work with our clients and their tax advisors in complex business transactions, sales and acquisitions, mergers, corporate reorganizations and creation of new entities, including limited liability companies and joint ventures. Through prudent and practical consultation, we help our clients implement tax planning strategies to minimize, defer and even avoid taxation.

Whether the subject matter involves an individual or a for-profit or tax-exempt entity, our tax attorneys can confidently recommend strategic action in the clients' best interests.

Additionally, many of our firm's tax attorneys are also Certified Public Accountants or hold advanced degrees in taxation beyond law school.
