

DENTAL PRACTICE

Dentistry and orthodontics are important parts of primary health care. Hall Render attorneys have extensive experience in representing dental and orthodontics professionals and the organized legal entities administering their practices.

Our dental practice attorneys regularly counsel our dental and orthodontics clients on matters such as entity organization, taxation, financing, business operations, insurance, joint ventures, employment law, reorganizations and dissolutions, admissions and retirement of principals and sales and purchases of practices. We work closely with our clients' certified public accountants to ensure proper tax planning and compliance.
