

TELEMEDICINE

Hall Render attorneys advise clients on a broad array of issues related to telehealth and telemedicine. The broad provision of telemedicine services continues to include issues related to provider licensing, credentialing, risk and reimbursement. For providers, these challenges arise as they explore new delivery models, deploy technology and respond to patient demands. Our attorneys are versed in navigating these challenges as well as those related to reimbursement for telehealth services provided to beneficiaries of governmental and private insurance. Our attorneys also work with clients responding to telemedicine challenges proactively through modifications to medical staff bylaws and employment agreements. In addition to assisting clients in navigating the existing web of regulatory challenges in the provision of telehealth services, our attorneys work with members of Congress and congressional staff on legislative proposals that would encourage the adoption of telehealth delivery models for eligible services.
